No Tengo Razon

© 2001 Julia B. Moreno

Peace is
Seeing the daughter, the mother, the brother, the sister
In everyone.
Peace remains
When we realize humanity
And it ends
When enemies are declared.

Es que no tengo razon tener bandera
No tengo razon entrar en la guerra
No tengo razon apollar los lideres en poder

No tengo razon mandar los hijos al frontera
No tengo razon poner mas valor en una vida
Mas que, mas que la otra.

Will you declare me evil, the enemy?
If I stand, if I stand against the machine?
If I keep faith alive in all peoples?
If I reject the idea of war?

Voices of Protest

Verse 1:

I'm going to sit on the street
And link arms with my brothers and sisters
Voices of protest unite against the corporate giants.
Giants who insure that economic injustice continues
Where modern day slavery exists in the factories, sweatshops, and prisons.

Chorus:

It's a slavery of pollution

It's a slavery of wages

It's a slavery of justice

All around the world

Verse 2:

Away from the public's eyes

Police will be given authority in secret

To infiltrate and try to give us a sinister spin

Giants who would see that economic injustice continues

Where right wing groups set the path for our incarceration

Chorus:

It's a system of corruption

It's a system of hate

It's a system of injustice

All around the world

Bridge:

El Pueblo Unido

Jamas sera vencido

Corruption, infiltration

Corruption in this nation

Politician with suspicion

Politician with suspicion run this nation

Perception/Spiritual Stew

Verse1:

Universal love

Gotta head in this direction

Perception

Out of your body sensation
Creation
Somewhere up above
Deep within the heart
Connection
Excitation
Have you ever been of your mind?

Verse2:

Quest for higher ground
A love as old as time
After all we're global family
Considering our fate by the actions we take.
Dissipated dreams
Who do you think you are?
Definition hinged on attention
Moving ahead by lies and deceit.

Chorus:

Every fiber is in the making
Pay attention with quietness.
Push aside the material
Drop the pretense of the intellectual
This will reveal what you conceal.

Verse3:

Planetary life
Will our children see
Extinction
Eradication
Atmospheric disintegration
Depletion
Turn this world around

Deep intrinsic breath

Preservation

Dedication

Consecrate growth through

Devotion

Redemption

Chorus:

Every fiber is in the making

Pay attention with quietness.

Push aside the material

Drop the pretense of the intellectual

This will reveal what you conceal
